The Academy Award for Best Picture goes to...

FILM

A scene from 'The Untouchables' featuring Kevin Costner and Robert De Niro.

After a year of controversy, the Academy Awards have finally chosen a winner for Best Picture. The film 'The Untouchables' has been crowned the champion, beating out other strong contenders like 'The Godfather Part II' and 'The Silence of the Lambs'.

The film, directed by John Dahl, tells the story of the early days of the Prohibition in Chicago, focusing on the lives of the 'Untouchables'—a group of men who were immune to the law. Kevin Costner plays the role of Eliot Ness, a man who is determined to bring down the gangster Al Capone, played by Robert De Niro.

The film is a classic example of the 'gangster' genre, and it's no surprise that it has won so many awards. It's a well-crafted, well-acted film that is both entertaining and educational. It's a shame that it's not as well-known as it should be.
